

The Kokanee Chronicle — September Edition

Dear Citizens of Kokanee Village,

Summer may be winding down, but life in our campground is heating up with changes, laughter, and the occasional chicken sale. Gather round, because we've got the inside scoop, the behind-the-scenes documentary details, and a sprinkle of whimsy straight from the heart of the village.

☕ Power to the People (and Their Coffee Makers)

- Breaking news! Power will stay on until Thanksgiving. That's right, no need to pack up the kettle too soon.
 - Coming attractions: Power returns April 1 next spring (and no, it's not an April Fool's joke).
 - Rumors confirmed: Winter access is on the table. Picture it — snowflakes falling, RVs glowing, villagers huddled around propane heaters like pioneers of comfort.

✨ September Flash Sale!

- 50% off all accommodations in September for Kokanee residents & friends.
- Yes, even the magical Dome overnights with lake sunsets.
- Book soon, or risk hearing your neighbor brag about their discounted getaway.

Speed Bumps: The Sequel

- You asked, we tested. Some love them, some mutter under their breath.
 - If the current experiment doesn't pass the popcorn test (aka, can you drive over it without spilling your movie snacks?), we'll bring in new, improved bumps.
 - Stay tuned for the thrilling conclusion.

Horseshoe Pits: The Relocation Saga

- Coming September 21: Horseshoe pits are reborn in their new location.
 - Expect rivalries, laughter, and possibly a few bent shoes.
 - Who will claim the title of Village Champion? Odds available at the Fun Council betting window (just kidding... or are we?).

Garbage Wars: Episode V — The Camera Strikes Back

- Next week, cameras arrive in the garbage area. Accountability has entered the chat.
 - In spring, after the frost and mud have done their thing, we'll add fresh soil for easier access.
 - Translation: less slipping, less grumbling, more village pride.

Chicken Classifieds

- The chickens are officially for sale.
 - Fresh eggs included, sense of humor not guaranteed.
 - Contact the office if you've got space in your coop (or a very tolerant doghouse).

Bathroom Confidential

- The bathrooms go code-access soon.
 - Cameras will keep an eye from the outside on the doors only — because apparently, more folks than usual have discovered just how nice they are.
 - Think of it as our very own episode of Bathroom Security: The Untold Story.

Future Power 2026: The Long Game

- Negotiations with the provider are in play.
 - The goal? A clear rollout and metering system by 2026.
 - It's the slow-burn drama of infrastructure planning — not flashy, but essential.

📱 App-etite for Connection

- Big love to our test team — your feedback is pure gold.
 - A tester-only build is coming first, then the rest of you will get it.
 - Imagine: news, updates, events — all in your pocket. The Kokanee App = The Village Gazette 2.0.

🎵 Viewpoint Voltage

- Across the street, Kokanee Viewpoint now has a power trailer.
 - Translation: DJs, lights, and late-night dance moves fueled by electrons.
 - Next time you're there, thank the trailer for powering your boogie.

🏠 Rezoning Chronicles

- Behind closed doors (and a few open ones), we're working with Seba Beach Council & Parkland County on rezoning the school property.
 - Mid-September meeting = decisive moment.
 - Expect drama, debate, and hopefully a happy ending.

🎵 In the Woods Festival: Standing Ovation

- Nearly 1,000 tickets sold!
- Big thanks to every helper, dancer, and neighbor who brought the festival to life.
- Lessons learned + laughter shared = the recipe for an even bigger show next year.

- But wait... the Fun Council says the party isn't over. Another invite is coming.

And so, dear villagers, the story rolls on. From garbage cameras to glowing domes, from chickens to speed bumps, Kokanee is never boring — and always better when we share it together.

With gratitude, humor, and maybe a little too much coffee,

Tim & Jesse Latimer and the Kokanee Team
